Try Spiritual To Prevent Future War, Says Speaker

Talks on Kiwanis education, particularly for the new committees of the Ocean Beach Kiwanis Club for the ensuing year, featured this week's meeting of the club Tuesday evening. The speakers were McLean Wilson, of National City, and Frank Harmon, past district lieutenant governor, and Rev. J. F. Roberts, of the local club, Jerry Sullivan, president-elect, was program chairman for the evening.

Main address of the three was by Wilson, who outlined the particular objectives of Kiwanis International that are to be stressed in 1945. "Though the six main objects of Kiwanis are the same as they have been for the past 20 years, each year certain supplemental objectives are formulated by Kiwanis for particular attention in any one year," he said, "and these are adjusted to fit the particular part of the country in which the clubs are located."

To be stressed here, he mentioned service for the returning members of the armed forces, encouraging Boy Scout work, also the fulfillment of citizenship duties of the club members. "Kiwanians," he said, "should be on their guard and alert to see that the very rights for which we are fighting this war, and which are necessarily restricted in waging the war, are returned to us intact when peace again comes. And this isn't politics, either. Let us forget self-government we must work to preserve freedom of opportunity to all."

Wilson also declared that spiritual values are vital to progress, something that Kiwanians should never overlook, he asserted. "We are all willing to admit there is something radically wrong with this old world when after centuries of civilization we are not rid of war," he said. "Having tried everything, the point now is well enough established that there is something wrong with governmental systems that lead only to war. The one real answer left to be tried is make the spiritual practical and apply it to our systems of government and relations between nations. I know of no better way than for Kiwanis and other service clubs to join hands and lay the ground work for the application of the spiritual values of life."

Frank Harmon's main advice to the new committees was to plan, their committee work and then do it, and that means planning well the activity and doing it well. He urged that each committee chairman take his duties seriously. Committees should meet not less than once a month, he said.

A guest at the meeting was Richard Hilmen of Ocean Beach, introduced by Clyde Tallman.

At next week's meeting, Kiwanis education will be continued, the program to be especially for the new members admitted to the Ocean Beach club during the past year. Past President Milton Lancaster will be program chairman and will be assisted by Secretary Burritt S. Mills.

For the following week's meeting, installation of the new officers and the Kiwanians as guests will feature.

Sky Gazers Given Thrill Monday By Venus And Moon

Hundreds of Ocean Beach folks got the thrill of a lifetime gazing at what appeared to be a collision between Venus, the evening star, and the moon early Monday evening. The new moon was about at the quarter and at first just before dusk Venus seemed to be tacked on right at the upper tip of the lunar semi-circle. As the evening wore on Venus appeared gradually farther and lower to the right of the moon.

According to reports reaching The News no local sky gazer had ere witnessed such a sight before. Local astronomers at the State College and in town also admitted the sight was exceedingly rare. Griffith observatory experts at Los Angeles reported that the moon passes Venus each month, but rarely so close in appearance. As a matter of actual astronomy mathematics, however, the two heavenly bodies instead of being in contact were millions of miles apart. While the moon is only 240,000 miles from the earth, Venus is computed to be about 25,000,000 miles away.

Yes, Virginia

Back in 1897, little Virginia O'Hanlon wrote the following letter to the editor of the New York Sun: "I am 8 years old. Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus. Papa says, 'If you see it in The Sun it's so.' Please tell me the truth—is there a Santa Claus?" The editor wrote a newspaper and literary classic in reply to this childish plea. It is reprinted here.

ES, indeed!

"Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age—they do not believe except what they see—they think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds.

"All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. "In this great universe of ours, man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge.

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus.

"He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

"Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies!

"You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus—the most real things in the world are those neither children nor men can see.

"Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there—nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders that are unseen and unseeable in the world.

"You tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, or even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside the curtain and view and picture the supernal beauty and glory beyond.

"Is it all real?—ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

"No Santa Claus! Thank God!—he lives, and he lives forever—a thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood."

OCEAN BEACH GIRL AT WHITE HOUSE VISITING FRANKLIN R. ROOSEVELTS

The former Faye Emerson of Ocean Beach is at the White House in Washington, D. C. visiting her new father-in-law and mother-in-law, President and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. With her husband, Col. Elliott Roosevelt, whom she married Dec. 3 at Grand Canyon, Ariz., she left Hollywood Dec. 15 for Washington, stopping enroute at Beaumont, Texas to visit her mother, Mrs. Jean Young of Ocean Beach.

USO Plans Yule Party For Service Men And Women

Entertainment by the Point Loma high school girls choir is to be a feature of the USO Christmas Eve Party for the service men and women, to be held at the Ocean Beach USO rooms. The girls will sing Christmas carols and there will be other special music.

Plan is to have the clubrooms festive with yule decorations, a large Christmas tree to be the center of the attraction. Small gifts will be presented to each service man and service woman attending.

More of these gifts are needed, reports the committee in charge, and the request is made that Ocean Beach folks wishing to donate to this worthy cause, bring their small gifts to the club rooms to be placed under the tree. "Any small article, costing around 35 cents, will be appreciated, and if you do not have time to wrap them, the hostesses on duty at the USO will gladly do the wrapping for you," announces the committee.

For Christmas Day the USO schedules provide for "Open House" from two o'clock in the afternoon until late at night, with an American Legion Post sponsored dance as a feature for the evening. The Legionnaires will provide the orchestra and the refreshments for the dance, say those in charge.

The Legion post has collected funds sufficient for the purchase of 200 gifts for the Christmas eve party. Post officers report that the Ocean Beach merchants have contributed freely to the fund.

Mrs. Wilma Murray, 4678 Santa Monica, has as her guests Maj. and Mrs. Fred Maginott. Mrs. Maginott is a cousin of Mrs. Murray. They plan to spend the holidays with relatives and friends in Pasadena and Glendale. Major Maginott has recently returned from 27 months in the Aleutian Islands. The Maginotts came here from Camp Swift, Texas, and will be stationed at Camp Callan.

Keeping Spirit Of Christmas

HENRY VAN DYKE
(From "The Spirit of Christmas.")

It is a good thing to observe Christmas day. The mere marking of times and seasons, when men agree to stop work and make merry together, is a wise and wholesome custom. It helps one to feel the supremacy of the common life over the individual life. It reminds a man to set his own little watch, now and then, by the great clock of humanity which runs on sun time.

But there is a better thing than the observance of Christmas day, and that is, keeping Christmas.

Are you willing to forget what you have done for other people, and to remember what other people have done for you; to ignore what the world owes you; to put your rights in the background, and your duties in the foreground; and your chances to do a little more than your duty in the foreground; to see that your fellowmen are just as real as you are, and to try to look behind their faces to their hearts, hungry for joy; to own that probably the only good reason for your existence is not what you are going to get out of life, but what you are going to give to life; to close your book of complaints against the management of the universe, and look around you for a place where you can sow a few seeds of happiness—are you willing to do these things even for a day? Then you can keep Christmas.

Are you willing to stoop down and consider the needs and the desires of little children; to remember the weakness and loneliness of people who are growing old; to stop asking how much your friends love you, and ask yourself whether you love them enough; to bear in mind the things that other people have to bear in their hearts; to try to understand what those who live in the same house with you really want, without waiting for them to tell you; to trim your lamp so that it will give more light and less smoke, and to carry it in front so that your shadow will fall behind you; to make a grave for your ugly thoughts and a garden for your kindly feelings, with the gate open—are you willing to do these things even for a day? Then you can keep Christmas.

Are you willing to believe that love is the strongest thing in the world—stronger than hate, stronger than evil, stronger than death—and that the blessed life which began in Bethlehem 1900 years ago is the image and brightness of the Eternal Love? Then you can keep Christmas.

And if you keep it for a day, why not always? But you can never keep it alone.

Wrap It Right

Here's what happens when packages—both overseas and domestic—are not wrapped correctly. That soldier or sailor may be a forgotten man on the holiday mail call unless packages are wrapped securely and addressed plainly.

Brawn Takes Place Of Boar's Head on Noel

Brawn has largely been substituted for the boar's head for the Christmas and New Year's celebrations.

For this dish the pig's head is soaked in salt water all night, scraped, cleaned and the brain and eyes removed.

It is boiled until tender enough to remove the bones. The meat is picked from the bones, chopped fine, seasoned with red and black pepper, cloves, mace, nutmeg and salt. It is then pressed into a brick or loaf form and served cold.

The custom is believed to have originated with the ancient Romans.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Swain, 4621 Pescadero Ave., expect to have the following relatives and friends for dinner Christmas day: Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Jamieson, Mr. and Mrs. R. Bement, and daughter, Phyllis, Mrs. Claudia C. Cook, and J. F. Brangard.

Local Churches Plan Christmas Programs

Two Day Holiday Planned In Ocean Beach Dec. 24-25

A two-day holiday is the plan for Ocean Beach Sunday and Monday on account of Christmas. The stores generally, the bank and the postoffice will be closed both Sunday and Monday. The News is informed. For the benefit of the shoppers for Yule gifts many of the local stores are open every evening this week.

At the postoffice, a new record is being set for volume of mail handled, reports Supt. H. K. Rankin. To take care of the rush, he has three extra clerks in the office. Each foot carrier has two helpers this week and also as long next week as may be necessary. The carriers will not make their routes during the two-day holiday, and the windows at the postoffice will be closed, but the parcel post Christmas packages will be delivered both Sunday and Monday, says Rankin.

Joseph Laurent Reported Missing In Action Dec. 2

Pvt. Joseph G. Laurent, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Laurent, 2069 Sunset Cliffs Blvd., is reported missing in action in Germany as of the date of December 2. A telegram from Acting Adjutant General Dunlop, Washington, D. C., was received here Tuesday by the parents, stating that: "The secretary of war desires me to express deepest regret that your son, Pvt. Joseph G. Laurent has been reported missing in action since December 2 in Germany. If further details or other information is received you will be promptly notified."

The parents are of the belief that their son has been in the fighting at the Germany west front for two months. Overseas since July this year, he was in the infantry of the famous "Timberwolf" division of the First U. S. Army. Last letter the parents received from him was dated November 27.

An only child, Laurent was born April 10, 1925, at Phoenix, Ariz. The family came to San Diego in 1935 and young Joseph graduated in 1942 from Hoover high school. He was an outstanding member and rifle expert of the Hoover High R. O. T. C. and had attained the rank of second lieutenant in the R. O. T. C.

A few days after graduation he passed the A-12 examinations and was in basic training in the army tank corps for six months at Camp Hood, near Waco, Texas. Then followed four months of training with the army engineering corps in Los Angeles City College. He also had special training at Camp Dix, N. J. and Camp Carson, near Colorado Springs, Colorado, before going overseas.

WARMTH FOR HER SOUL

I could have brought a pair of gloves

To keep her finger warm;

And she needed a scarf

To wear at her throat

Where the collar of her coat was torn.

Instead, I carried to her door

A beautiful, blue glass bowl,

Far more than a scarf

Or a pair of gloves

She needed new warmth for her soul. —Mendethel Cullow.

BETWEEN THE DEVIL AND THE DEEP

Home on leave, a naval lieutenant took his small daughter on a shopping tour. In a crowded department-store elevator, a stout party gave the j. g. an outraged look, and smacked him squarely on the face. The j. g. compressed his lips and said nothing. As they emerged on the ground floor, his young daughter said heatedly, "I hate that woman, too, papa. She stepped on my foot, so I pinched her."

Mrs. Murphy: "What do you hear from your boy, Mike, in Australia?"

Mrs. Clancy: "It's bad news. He writes that he's running around with a jeep!"

Mrs. Murphy: "Don't worry, Mrs. Clancy, that's what they call them: army automobiles."

Mrs. Clancy: "Praise be the saints, I thought a jeep was a female Jap!"

A young man, meeting the minister said: "Have you heard the story of the dirty window? On second thought I won't tell it, as I don't think you could see thru it."

The preacher thought this extremely good. Later, at a meeting of the deacons, he said: "Have you heard the story of the window you can't see through? On second thought, I won't tell you. It's too dirty."

When asked to name all of the 48 states, a small boy responded with such speed and accuracy that he was commended for it by his teacher.

"That was much better than I could have done when I was your age," she said.

"Yeah," was the reply, "and there wuz only 13 states then, too."

IT'S TRADITION. Ever since its inception in 1933, the lights of Christmas Tree Lane in Balboa Park have marked the opening of the Christmas season in San Diego and have welcomed the public to the Annual Free Electric Christmas Show staged by the Bureau of Radio and Electrical Appliances. Although a casualty of the war, Christmas Tree Lane will once again twinkle after victory and San Diegans will once more witness displays featuring the latest word in electrical home equipment at the Free Electric Shows.

Dear Santa:

This isn't going to be a regular letter because this Christmas isn't going to be a regular Christmas.

Ordinarily I'd be asking you for a lot of things like a brand new electric refrigerator, a completely automatic washing machine or one of those speedy new electric irons. And on top of that, Santa, we could certainly use one of those home freezer units that we've heard so much about.

But this isn't an ordinary year. This is a special year and I've a very special request to make. Santa, please slip an extra war bond into every stocking you fill this year to help win the war just a bit sooner. An extra war bond will speed the day when all of us can enjoy "an electrical Christmas" again!

Three Wise Men Of Ancient Time; Relics at Cologne

Biblically we know very little about the Wise Men who came from the East bearing gifts to the Christ Child and, having adorned Him as the King of the Jews, returned to their own country.

It is generally accepted that there were three Wise Men because of the three specifically mentioned gifts: church tradition has identified these as Melchior, Caspar, and Balthasar; Melchior, king of Arabia, brought a casket of gold; Caspar, king of Tarsus, brought myrrh; and Balthasar, king of Ethiopia, brought frankincense. These gifts are considered symbolic of what Jesus was to become—gold for a king, frankincense for a high priest, and myrrh for a great physician. Collectively, the Wise Men received the gifts of charity and spiritual wealth, perfect faith, truth and meekness.

When they returned to their own country, the three Kings reputedly sold their possessions and went about preaching the Christ-King. Legend continues, that they were martyred in India for their faith.

The bodies of the Wise Men, transferred to Constantinople in the fourth century—by the Empress Helena, mother of Constantine—were enshrined at Milan for a while after the first Crusade. Frederick Barbarossa authorized removal of the relics to Cologne where they remain to this day deposited within the magnificent Cathedral of Cologne.

LONGFELLOW'S POEM APPLIES TODAY

The following poem on "Christmas Bells," from the pen of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, written about 80 years ago, is just as applicable to these times of war as it was then.

Several times this week we have had the thought brought home to us that when we think of what our boys are up against on the battlefronts of the world this, of all Yuletides, is the one with the least real merriment.

In a sense we are fighting to make sure that the Christmases of the future may really be merry again. Let us take comfort in the hope that a complete Allied victory in this war and the establishment of the right kind of a peace will bring that reality. God forbid that the terrible sacrifices of this war should be in vain. Here is the poem:

CHRISTMAS BELLS

I heard the bells on Christmas Day
Their old, familiar carols play,
And wild and sweet
The words repeat
Of peace on earth, good will to men!

It was as if an earthquake rent
The hearthstones of a continent,
And made forlorn
The households born
Of peace on earth, good will to men!

And in despair I bowed my head;
"There is no peace on earth," I said:
"For hate is strong,
And mocks the song

"Of peace on earth, good will to men!"
Then pealed the bells more loud and deep:
"God is not dead; nor doth He sleep!
The Wrong shall fail,
The Right prevail
With peace on earth, good will to men!"

—Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

Hearty and cheery
And happy and true,
An ever so fervent
Merry Christmas to you! " " "

LOCAL HAPPENINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Greeson are now established in their recently purchased home at 4411 Newport Ave. They have sold their former residence at 4802 Coronado Ave. to N. Ashner, a new assistant to Milton Lancaster at the Market Basket. Mr. Ashner's wife and two daughters arrived Wednesday from Detroit, Mich., to join him in their new home.

Among the family reunions and dinners set for Christmas Day will be one at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Levi R. Woodley, 4868 Santa Cruz Ave. The group will include the three sisters, Mrs. Woodley, Mrs. J. R. Lowmes and Mrs. R. R. Bass and their husbands; also the parents of the sisters, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Burdine, and the three children of Warrant Officer and Mrs. Bass.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Anderson have moved their Ocean Beach Grill from 2183 Bacon St., where they had been located since last August, to 4955 Newport Ave. They have the west half of the Snooker pool hall building and moved in their fixtures this week. They opened Thursday (yesterday) for business in the new location. They plan to be open every day and to serve the three regular meals as well as lunches, Mrs. Anderson stated Thursday.

Reports from Rollin E. Reed, head of the local bank, Thursday on the condition of James O. Morris of the bank's staff, were of the improvement in Jim's illness at the Hillside hospital in San Diego. Following the operation for a ruptured appendix, complications had set in and for a few days Jim's condition was critical. Hopes for his recovery, however, are now being held out, his many friends here will be glad to know.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Dewees of 4631 Pescadero Ave., had as guests last week Mrs. Walter Hensler and daughter, Miss Christine Campbell, and Mrs. Philip Campbell, all of Annapolis, Calif. The last named stopped off here on her way home from Louisiana where she had been with her husband, who is in the service, until he was transferred to an embarkation camp. Mrs. Campbell is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dewees. All the guests left the fore part of the week for Annapolis.

Coloring the Flames

To have colored flames in the Christmas fireplace there are a number of different chemicals which may be added to shellac as a carrier. Small pieces of wood may be painted with the mixtures or it can be mixed with sawdust. The following colors and chemicals required will give excellent results: Violet, potassium chlorate; yellow, potassium nitrate; orange, calcium chloride; yellow, sodium chloride or salt; red, strontium nitrate; apple green, barium nitrate; emerald, copper nitrate; green, borax; purple, lithium chloride.

Rich and Poor Mingled

During English Yule

During the 1400s and 1500s before the Puritans got the upper hand, the golden age of English hospitality reigned. At Christmas time castles and manor houses were filled with guests by the score and the hundred.

Kinsmen and neighbors were there and on certain days the tradesmen and tenants, for all were equal at this season. The 'ostler could dance with the mistress if he had the nerve to ask her. And he usually had—after the wassail.

The great halls were a din of geniality. There was light—almost enough to pierce the wood smoke. And there were the savory aromas: Roasting beef, roasting mutton, fowl and brawn (the flesh of the wild pig, which had been caught and fed good grain to the point of arousing his suspicions; too late, of course). The dark ale flowed and added its voice—by proxy—to heighten the noise. At the peak of all this there was brought in the Yule log—a relic, incidentally, of the Scandinavians' pagan worship of Thor. With a brand from last year's log the new one was fired.

The light from these roaring flames would shine out through portals opened to the knocks of caroling and wassailing bands who, more often than not, were brought into the hall to eat of nutmeg cakes and brawn and mustard.

Christmas Elf Concerned

Jule-Nisse was not exactly a Danish version of Santa Claus. He was an elfish little old man who lived in the attic and was primarily concerned with the well-being of the cattle, keeping them quiet and contented, caring for them if the stablehands neglected their duties.

Nisse's name and association with Christmas probably stems from his legendary tenancy of houses where peace and contentment prevailed. 'Tis said he either avoided homes where contention ruled or played all sorts of gremlin-like tricks upon the occupants thereof.

Danish youngsters, mindful of Nisse's long memory and watchful eye, put themselves upon their good behavior as Christmas approaches.

Legends of Holly

Holly was much admired by the Druids who believed that its evergreen leaves attested to its favor with the sun god.

Legends related that the crown of thorns was plaited from the holly. Before the crucifixion the berries were white but turned crimson like drops of blood.

Another is that holly is hateful to witches and is therefore placed on doors and windows to keep out evil spirits.

A more modern legend is that whoever brings the Christmas holly into the house first, either husband or wife, is the one who will rule the ensuing year.

Same Old Santa

Same old Santa, same old joys,
Same old dolls and sleds and toys;
Same old holly, same old tree,
Same old gifts for cherubs wee;
Same old carol, same old light,
Same old stockings hung at night;
Same old words of merry cheer,
Same good wishes for the year.
Same old Christmas! Seems to me
That's the way it ought to be.

Christmas Seal Origin Recalled With 1943 Drive

The origination of the Christmas tuberculosis seal was recalled by officials of the American Tuberculosis Institute as the 36th annual sale got under way.

Back in 1903 Einar Holboell, then a young mail clerk in the post office at Charlottenlund, Denmark, conceived the idea of a voluntary tax on Christmas greeting cards which would benefit the poor. He gained permission from the ministry to sell the stamps at post offices for a fund to erect a hospital for tubercular children.

In 1907 Miss Emily P. Bissell of Wilmington, Del., adopted the idea and interested the American Red Cross in the project. The first national sale in 1908 brought in $135,000 and the amount has grown larger each year. The sale of seals has saved 100,000 lives annually among tubercular patients, officials declare.

At the time of his death in 1927, Holboell was president of the International Tuberculosis association and a member of the board of directors of the National Tuberculosis Association of Denmark. As a mark of honor to the originator, the Danish Christmas seal for 1927 bore his picture.

Christmas Poem

The time draws near the birth of Christ:
The moon is hid; the night is still;
The Christmas bells from hill to hill
Answer each other in the mist.

Four voices of four hamlets round,
From far and near, on mead and moor,
Swell out and fail, as if a door
Were shut between me and the sound.

Each voice four changes on the wind,
That now dilate, and now decrease,
Peace and good-will, good-will and peace,
Peace and good-will, to all mankind.

—Tennyson.

Famous Cribbs of World Still Being Preserved

In various central European countries the Christmas crib, staged in a box, is carried through the streets by groups of singing children. It is also a feature of every home in southern Europe, where many famous cribbs are found in churches.

The most elaborate Christmas praesepe in Italy is the celebrated shrine of Madonna delle Grazie. After the news of St. Francis' praesepe had spread the Capuchin monks built a grotto 18 feet high, made of Sardinian cork. They had a system of figures, shepherds, flocks, and the Three Kings, which moved down to the manger. The wooden figures were carved by Gaggini and Maragliano.

The crib at Casterta, Italy, includes the most famous Bambino in the world.

At the Bayerisches National museum in Munich is to be found the world's most famous collection of cribbs.

Peacock Christmas Dish

It's been a long time since the peacock was considered the best dish for Christmas. This bird used to be served to gatherings of knights and lords in "merrie olde England." It was first skinned, with all its feathers intact, roasted, then placed back in its skin.

Gift Giving

Gift-giving was well established among Northern European tribes before they became converted to Christianity. It was so much of an obligation among pagan Germans to distribute gifts that men actually left the country during the holiday season to escape gift-giving.

Ocean Beach Camp & Hospital

By ONA E. PEACOCK
Phone B-5639

On behalf of Red Cross Camp and Hospital and myself, we want to thank the women of Ocean Beach and all who have helped to make this Christmas a pleasant one for our wounded servicemen.

Miss Nye says to tell you all that you have been wonderful and words cannot thank you enough. They are very busy at headquarters, as you can imagine—so many new arrivals from the battle fronts.

Last week we had fifty-four dozen cookies and two birthday boxes. Mrs. Earl Shaw made a beautiful pink cake and we trimmed it with yellow candles and holders. A birthday greeting card and birthday napkins go with each box. All boxes are decorated and tied with ribbon.

Troop 120 Girl Scouts, under supervision of Mrs. Hart, sent in a large box of tree decorations. Mrs. Lillian Hartvigsen mounted 140 crossword puzzles and answers. Besides 77 Christmas boxes, we had a large box of games too large for the boxes and 145 books and twenty-four pair of beautiful slippers for the Navy Hospital.

Ocean Beach can be proud of her efforts to show our boys how much we appreciate what they have done and are doing to keep a free nation. Thank you again and may you have a happy Christmas. I am sure that is what our men folks would want us to do. Our American customs and privileges are what they are fighting for.

Christmas Around the World

From the snows of Iceland to the heat of Guadalcanal—here's the way our soldiers, sailors and marines spent Christmas last year. It was an unusual sort of Christmas for them, but they made the best of it.

Their destroyer may be far out on the sea, but these naval officers didn't let the day go by unobserved. Even their grim "tin can" has a holiday appearance with a wreath and evergreen sprays.

Above: American members of the famous Kachin scouts sit down to their 1943 Christmas dinner in Northern Burma. The turkey was dropped by planes. Right: American doughboys in Naples, Italy, as they bargained for Yule gifts.

Above: Two members of the WAC, celebrating their first Christmas in England, enlist the aid of a G. I. to help pass time. Below: Nurses and patients in an Iceland hospital worked together to decorate this cheery ward.

This marine, stationed in North Ireland, made sure of his traditional Christmas dinner, whether the quartermaster keeps his promise of a turkey dinner or not.

Santa Claus trekked all over Guadalcanal on Christmas day to see that none of his boys were passed up. He's near the end of his trip judging from his light pack.

Merry Christmas to all. And from the reports received from Mrs. David Fraser, the boys in the hospital will be having a Merry Christmas, too, as the Christmas boxes are rolling in. Also a great number of little gifts and puzzles have been sent to the hospital.

With regard to the Christmas tree ornaments, I forgot to mention that more than 75 used electric light bulbs received from Les Hamm of Santa Cruz Avenue, were turned in to the U. S. O. center in the Medico-Dental building some time ago, to be used for tree decorations.

We are sorry to learn that Mrs. R. N. Noonan, of Sector G, is at Quintard Hospital with an appendectomy and we wish her a speedy recovery.

A great number of Christmas boxes have been turned in at the Ocean Beach school. Among them were one box from Mrs. E. P. Dietz, of Guizot street, one box from Mrs. J. H. Mason and Mrs. Les Hamm of Santa Cruz Avenue, and from Mrs. Novak and Mrs. Gehrman of Coronado Avenue, one box. Also turned in from Mrs. M. Maier's Sector C, were 21 Christmas cards and one game. Mrs. S. C. Stothart of Wildwood Drive, turned in one Christmas box.

Assisting Mrs. Leadbetter in packing and wrapping a number of boxes was Mrs. Charles Heller of Coronado Avenue.

Christmas Greetings 1944

"Now all our neighbors' chimneys smoke,
And Christmas blocks are burning;
Their ovens they with baked-meat cheke,
And all their spits are turning.
Without the door let sorrow fly;
And if for cold it hap to die
We'll bury it in Christmas pie,
And evermore be merry."

These 17th century verses typify the old-time Christmas spirit we wish for you this Yule season of 1944.

Aquatic Park To Excel Newport's Possible Locally

"Here at Mission Bay you have better possibilities for an aquatic park than we have at Newport California," Richard L. Patterson, city engineer of Newport, declared at a meeting of the Ocean Beach committee on post-war development of this area, held Friday afternoon at the Woman's Clubhouse. Chairman J. F. Roberts, of the committee, presided and called on Councilman G. C. Cray, who was present to give assurance of the city's cooperation and also spoke of the plans of the Southern California Shoreline Association, of which he is a member.

"We think we have the best yacht harbor on the Pacific coast," said Mr. Patterson, guest speaker at the conference. "Here at Mission Bay, however, you have a larger area to develop and you are starting from scratch." He urged that the plans for Mission Bay development be large enough to encompass all the possible features and then proceed with the development in easy stages.

Another speaker was City Councilman Earl V. Stanley, of Newport. Ernest Hulick of the San Diego Chamber of Commerce was called on and said he knew of nothing that would be a greater single asset to San Diego than the proposed Mission Bay aquatic park. The features contemplated will bring a class of people here that will have the money to spend and will spend it, he pointed out.

Details of the plan were explained by Glenn A. Rick, city planning director, who has spent a great deal of time and thought on the project. During the discussion, he replied to a number of questions propounded by members of the committee, particularly as regards to the proposed removal of the old bridge now linking the communities of Ocean Beach and Mission Beach.

A map of the proposed development is on display in the front office window of The News at 1922 Bacon St.

THE STAR IN THE EAST

Down through the ages has come the story of the shepherds tending their flocks at night, awed by the Star in the East.

During this sacred season, mellowed by the thought of those who cannot be with us, we have abundant reason for gratitude. We have come a long way since the dark Christmas of 1941. The Star in the East shines brighter now.

That this may, indeed, be a Merry Christmas for you and yours is our ardent wish.

Our boys are in all parts of the world this Christmas season, wishing they were home. We wish they were home, too. Yet we are separated only by time and distance.

We are united by our world observance, for our carols came from Palestine, the tree idea from Germany, the Santa Claus from Holland, the stocking from France, the greeting card and plum pudding from England and the turkey is America's contribution to Christmas. And the tender humaneness, love and Holy joy come from above.

when beaming faces tell that Christmas is very, very near, we are reminded again of the supreme value of friendship. He who has no friends, though he may have amassed a fortune, cannot be happy.

To all these friends we wish a very Merry Christmas Season.

GOD IS MY CO-PILOT

By COL. ROBERT L. SCOTT
WNU Features.

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I: Scott's early experiences with gliders and airplanes. He goes to Ft. McPherson and enlists in the regular army as a private.

CHAPTER II: Scott wins the West Point competitive exam and gets a furlough before reporting. He is graduated as a second lieutenant of infantry and goes to Europe, where he tours on a motorcycle. He sells his motorcycle and at last reaches Field, Texas.

CHAPTER III: Scott makes his first solo flight. Drives 1,300 miles to Georgia over every weekend to see his girl, Scott is now graduated from Kelly Field and has wings pinned on his chest. Ordered to report to Hawaii but wanting to get married he lays his plight before the General and is ordered to report at Mitchell Field, N. Y., instead.

CHAPTER IV: En route to New York Scott is stopped by police who mistake him for a bandit. He carries the mail for Uncle Sam in order to gain more flying time, and gets married.

It seemed to me now that all was lost. I had tried desperately for the last six months to get out of the Training Center, and now that war had come it seemed that the powers at the top had decided that all of us, whether we had been trained as fighter pilots or as combat pilots, were nevertheless to stay there in the Training Center. December, January, and February went by, and in these months I wrote from Victorville to General after General. I remember saying to one of them:

"Dear General, if you will excuse me for writing a personal letter to you on a more or less official subject in time of war, I will certainly submit to you for court martial after the war. But if you can just listen to me I don't care whether that court martial comes or not. I have been trained as a fighter pilot for nine years. I have flown thousands of hours in all types of planes. I've been brought here as an instructor and I think I've done my job. Please let me get out to fight. I want to go to Java, I want to go to Australia, I want to go to China, India, and anywhere there's fighting going on—just so you get me out of the monotony of the Training Center."

An answer came back from this General: He would do all he could, but men were necessary in the training centers. Even with these kind words, it appeared that my cause was lost. Then, when the future looked worse than at any time in my life, a telephone call came from Washington, from a Colonel.

"Have you ever flown a four-engine ship?"

I answered immediately: "Yes, Sir." I had flown one for a very few minutes, at least I'd flown it in spirit while standing behind the pilot and co-pilot—but that was the only time I'd ever been in the nose or in the cockpit of a Flying Fortress. His next question was: "How many hours have you flown it?" I told him eleven hundred; there was no need to tell a story unless it was a good one, and after all, I considered this a white kind of lie—a white lie that was absolutely necessary if I was to get to war.

After giving this information I went back to waiting with my hopes way up. One night in early March, 1942, they came true—and to me they read like a fairy tale, too good to be true. I was to comply with them immediately, reporting to a field in the Central States. There I would receive combat instructions from the leader of our mission.

As I drove over from Victorville to my home in Ontario that evening, it seemed as though I was already in the air—adventure had come at last. Even then the fear tugged at my heart that the orders would be changed before I could start. I told my wife that I was going to combat, but the nature of the orders forbade my telling her where, or what type of mission. Not even at the look of pain that crossed her face did I lose my feeling of victory. She was trying to act happy, but I knew it was only because she remembered that I wanted duty in combat.

That night I began to pack hastily, resolving at the same time to take my wife and little one-year-old daughter back towards Georgia, where they could be among relatives. As I packed and arranged for the furniture to be shipped I still had my exalted feeling of victory. When I got into bed, very late, I thought I would drop right off to sleep. But as my mind relaxed for the first time after the orders had been received, I felt myself come to complete wakefulness. I even sat up in bed, for I had realized for the first time what I had done.

Here was my home, with the two people whom I loved more than any others in all the world—my wife and my little girl. Here, in this wonderful place, I could possibly have lived out the war, behind a good safe desk at Victorville or some other training field. By my love of adventure, by my stubborn nature, I had talked myself out of this soft and wonderful job of staying home with my family. I was about to leave that girl I had driven all those thousands of miles to see for even ten minutes. Tears came to my eyes—I knew I had been a fool.

For hours I lay awake. And then, in the darkness, I think I saw the other side. Suppose I called that officer who had telephoned me from Washington. Suppose I called and told him that I had lied—that I had never flown a Flying Fortress. I could easily get out of this mission—but the thought was one that I couldn't entertain even for a second. For now the seriousness of war had gradually come to me. Unless men like myself—thousands and millions of them—left these wonderful luxuries in this great land of America we could lose it all forever. I loved these two with all my heart, but the only way in all the world to keep them living in the clean world they were accustomed to was to steel myself to the pain of parting with them for months or years—or even forever. The actuality of war, grim war, had come. I knew then that the theoretical word "Democracy" was not what we were to fight for. I knew it was for no party, no race, creed, or color. We were going to fight, and many of us were to die, for just what I had here—my wife and family. To me, they were all that was real, they were all that I could understand. To me, they were America.

Next day we got the household goods packed. We piled on an east-bound train and left California. That ride for me was the saddest thing that has ever happened. I would look at those two and see that my wife was thinking my own thought; even the little girl seemed to sense that all was not well. At Memphis, I almost casually bade them goodbye, and we parted. But as I watched their train disappear down the track I knew that part of my life was gone. My world was grim.

Reaching my assembly point for instructions, I found that I was reporting to Col. Caleb V. Haynes, one of the greatest of big-ship pilots—the pilot in our Air Force who had devoted much of his life to making the four-engine bomber the weapon that it is today. The entire group of officers and men made quite a gathering. I learned that they were all picked men, and that they had volunteered and almost fought for places on the crews of the Fortresses. And as I heard the explanation of the flight from Colonel Haynes I saw the reason for their excitement.

Capt. Colin Kelly, who sank the Jap battleship Hiryu.

Local Women In Drive To Help Buy A Bomber

Ocean Beach Woman's Club members will help in a campaign to buy a bomber, a campaign sponsored by the Southern California Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. C. W. Early, local club president, reported this week. Mrs. J. P. Miller is local chairman and the request is made that members and friends of the Ocean Beach club contact her by phoning Bayview 3066. The drive will run until February 15, reports Mrs. Early.

Support of the local club in this drive was voted at the December meeting, held Thursday afternoon last week. The meeting also had a Christmas motif, with a gift exchange as a feature. The club voted to buy a war bond for a disabled veteran in observance of Women's Week.

Two new members, Mrs. Margaret P. Sundberg and Mrs. F. M. Coloneus, were admitted to membership. The president closed the session with a Christmas message. The luncheon served was of the share-a-dish arrangement.

Local observance has been extended to December 23, announces Mrs. Early, the plan being to obtain donations to buy war bonds for the disabled servicemen.
